The History

At Mudrak & Sons, our passion for surfaces combined with design has been passed through the generations.

First Generation

The passion for surfaces began back in 1990's, when the artisan tile production specialist, Bartolomeo Mudrak, first began to handmade and surface print onto tiles and distribute them with both his local area in Somerset. His eye for detail and passion for offering specialist artisanal finishes saw great success during a period in the industry when interesting ceramics were very popular.

Second Generation

Following on from Bartolomeo's success, his son, Sergio Mudrak, saw his professional life nurture into becoming a tile agent. Representing the best European factories and coupled with Sergio's expert knowledge and unwavering service, he quickly became a familiar and popular face within the tile industry. 30+ years later he is still an agent, promoting with passion since the day he started!

The Future

The latest generation to the surfaces industry is Emilio Mudrak. With a passion for working on commercial and residential projects, Emilio began his time as a tile agent, eventually tailoring his work to promote within the specification market. Through working with architects, interior designers, contractors and distributors, Emilio is involved on many projects based both within the UK and Internationally.

He is often seen wrapping up samples to make client deadlines and offloading pallets from trucks just arriving from the continent to make sure shipments go out on time!

Mel King:

Mel is a recent addition to the team and is head of Mudrak & Sons logistics. He is a key driver in making our processes streamline, and ensuring all of our projects are supplied on time, every time.

Sustainability

Here are some of the key pillars we implement within our sustainability mission:

Eco-Friendly Products

We are constantly researching and developing their ranges towards more eco-friendly ceramic tiles, engineered woods, stone and mosaics. Ceramic Tiles are manufactured using cutting-edge technologies that minimize energy consumption and waste generation. Our company's commitment to reducing emissions and conserving resources has resulted in not only supplying tiles that are not only visually stunning, but also environmentally responsible. Our Engineered Wood manufacturers comply with all environmental legislation, including the EU Timber Regulation (995/2010), and are constantly evolving with the latest regulatory, technological and market developments. Our stone suppliers are also proud to be within the Stone Federation's Ethical Stone Register, which is a unique, certified process created by the UK's trade association specifically in response to The Modern Slavery Act 2015 and the issues of sourcing materials responsibly.

Waste Reduction

The company has implemented a comprehensive waste reduction program, recycling and reusing materials within our warehouse and supply facilities. We also actively monitor our suppliers via only promoting manufacturers who offer environmental reporting.

Greener Logistics

In an effort to further minimize its impact on the environment, we have optimized its logistics and distribution operations. We operate electric forklifts and work closely with carriers to ensure the most energy-efficient and sustainable shipping methods are employed during every shipment.

Adding value

Here are a few examples of how we have added value to our clients over the years on their projects:

Commercial projects

We will only supply you PTV36 for floor areas of your commercial projects which are up to British Standards from factories which are the cutting edge of sustainability.

Residential

We are quite often told by clients that they do not like cleaning the grout lines / the tilers complain the tiles are too big / thin. We offer large format porcelains with enough slip resistance for busy household, including contractors to fit them if required

Hotels

A very famous hotel spa briefed us at Mudrak and Sons with a natural stone looking material without the ongoing maintenance that a natural stone causes. We supplied a product which not only fit that brief, but also exceeded expectations both from a technical and aesthetical standpoint. Our porcelain actually turned out to be more of a favourite than the clients natural stone, so they revisited other areas of the hotel as well to make the change!
